

Don't

give Express Scripts and Medco a stranglehold on Americans' medicines

Americans depend on their prescription medicines. That's why the proposed Medco and Express Scripts merger worries so many consumers.

A new, $100 billion corporation would control the majority of America's private pharmacy benefits. That means less competition, less choice – and an unknown middleman with the power to tell us when, where and how to get vital medicines. What will stop Express Scripts and Medco from putting profits ahead of patients?

That's not healthy.

Help stop the Express Scripts and Medco merger.
